Letter To Parents Of School Students

Dear Parents,

Building upon a foundation which continues to grow stronger each year, the school system will give emphasis to three areas of the school program during 1978-79. These three areas include student conduct and discipline, instruction and learning, and parent involvement in the school program.

A society that does not discipline itself or live by a high standard of rules and values experiences many difficulties. Our society may presently be in this condition. Our schools must never reach this stage.

Our schools are a miniature society. In order to be effective, its members must live by a reasonable set of rules and regulations.

During the past, the schools of Appomattox have maintained an orderly school environment. This will continue to be a goal of the schools.

The schools will attempt to help students learn proper conduct and every effort will be made to work with parents of students to resolve problems. However, the schools will not allow the conduct of a few students to disrupt the learning opportunities of many students.

Students will be expected to follow the rules and regulations of the school system while on the school grounds and on school buses. Repeated violations will result in the student or students being removed from the school bus and the school.

The primary responsibility of the school system is the instructional program. Effective learning experiences should be provided in each classroom in kindergarten through the twelth grade. It is the responsibility of each instructional employee of the school system to help each student reach the maximum level of the student's capability.

In recent years the instructional program has expanded to meet a wide range of student differences. A comprehensive program of special education will be available for students who are in need of these services. Beginning with the seventh grade, students will make tentative career choices and plan to take course offerings which will enable them to enter the world of work upon graduation from high school or to continue formal education.

The program and opportunities for receiving an effective education are available to all people. It is a responsibility of every adult in Appomattox County to help our youth take advantage of the opportunities provided for them.

Without the assistance of parents the school program cannot reach its maximum effectiveness. Students and school officials must work together in the interest of youth.

There are a number of areas for cooperative efforts. Parents can assist with many school programs, participate in P.T.A. activities and serve on various project and advisory committees.

At home, parents have a responsibility to communicate with their children, to provide a scheduled time for homework and to make sure that the child attends school regularly.

Sometimes we think that young students need more of our time and attention than students in the seventh through the twelfth grades. My suggestion is that parents should give close supervision to their children at all levels, including high school. Many problems will be prevented if parents will work with their children and keep informed of the school program.

The school division will give priority attention to student conduct and discipline, instruction and learning and parent involvement in the school program during 1978-79. We ask for your cooperation and assistance to help make the school system as effective as possible for your sons and daughters.

We look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,
Lloyd G. Walton
Division Superintendent

Average U.S. Home May Soon Cost $78,000

The average price of a typical American home could reach the almost incredible level of $78,000 within five years. This startling information was released in early March 1977 in a report by the Joint Center for Urban Studies of Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The price of housing in the past few years has jumped twice as fast as family incomes. Contributing to this rapid rise in the price have been inflation, government regulations, and periodic shortages of mortgage money — all of which has caused a sharp decline in housing starts since 1972.

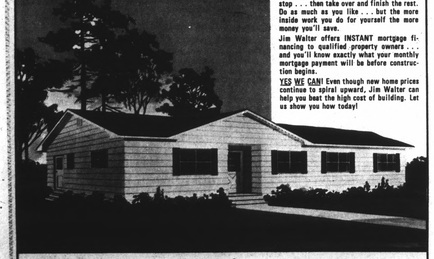
YES WE CAN
...help you beat the high cost of building a new home.

For over three decades, Jim Walter has been building and financing homes that families of all walks of life can afford. NOTHING HAS CHANGED! If you own property, we can still custom build a home for you for far less than "average" prices being reported in newspapers, on television and radio. YES WE CAN! Let us show you!

We'll also show you that, by doing some or all of your own inside finishing work, you can save more. Here's how: Jim Walter will custom build your new home to almost any stage . . . from the "shell" up to 90% complete. We'll finish the outside in every detail. On the inside, you tell us where to stop . . . then take over and finish the rest. Do as much as you like . . . but the more inside work you do for yourself the more money you'll save.

Jim Walter offers INSTANT mortgage financing to qualified property owners . . . and you'll know exactly what your monthly mortgage payment will be before construction begins.

YES WE CAN! Even though new home prices continue to spiral upward, Jim Walter can help you beat the high cost of building. Let us show you how today!



Homes built on your property to any stage of completion from the shell to 90% finished.

The Healing Fellowship Of The Church

Galations 6:1-10

The obligation to heal those who fall, is not alone the work of the ordained minister.He is only the servant of the fellowship which is God's instrument of healing. Luther in his explanation to the commandment "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor" ADMONISHES US." We should so fear and love God as not deceitfully, betray slander, or give out reports that injure your neighbor, but apologize for him,speak well of him. Here is the acid test for a Christian. Just what does he do with a man who fails? What is your attitude toward those who are overtaken in a fault? What is your obligation to the man who has failed? All of these questions must be answered by each one of us. However, there is another question that must be asked. What is the responsibility of the corporated fellowship of the Church? The first answered may be tied up in the word Brethern. We are to feel on a level with the man who falls. We must regard ourselves as fellow sinners, only we are saved by the grace of God. If we think we are better than they are, we cannot help them at all, every soul is dear to God. So we are to help our brethren to over come his fault, however we are falling down on the job. Gossip is a common temptation, and many men are put down to stay because of gossip. Yes, and too many men are where they are because no one expected them to be any better. Paul's true concern is for the fellowship, the healing fellowship of the church. Paul in all of his travels seemed to be a lone world, yet he carried a deep concern for the total fellowship of the church. He believed with all of his soul that the church has a responsibility as the custodian of Christian truth. Now as Christians we must share the responsibility of caring for our fellow man. This keeps our life from becoming stale. In a letter that Paul has written to the Thessalonians after he had left, telling about the second coming of Christ Jesus and giving the help they needed to look on and receive what God had for them. Because of God's righteousness men were able to endure persecutions and tribulations, and because of this they were able to help the Brethren, they were more able to love one another, and care for the soul of the Brethern.

Christ Jesus is alive today. Lorenz Eifert wrote, "The dying Jesus is the evidence of God's anger toward sin, but the living Jesus is the proof of God's Love and Forgiveness.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE 29th CHAPTER

Lesson for August 27, 1978

Background Scripture: Acts 28
Devotional Reading: Philippians 1:12-21.

The close of the Book of Acts is usually puzzling to the average reader. At last Paul arrives for trial in Rome. But instead of being thrown into a dungeon in preparation for a quick and speedy trial before Caesar, upon arrival, we are told, "Paul was allowed to stay by himself with the soldier that guarded him" (28:16). It seems a strange arrangement to us. The only thing suggestive of it in today's world is what we call "house arrest," a procedure sometimes followed today with important political prisoners. (We must conclude that it was more a matter local practice than Paul's importance.)

We Want To Hear

Another strange development is Paul's freedom to meet with and speak to the Jewish community in Rome. One would think that the prisoner would be restricted from pursuing the very activity that had gotten him into trouble in the first place. Without any flamrance, they come to his residence in great numbers to hear him.

In light of all the opposition and hostility he has experienced from Jewish communities in other locations, we also find surprising the attitude with which they greeted him: "we desire to hear from you what your views are, for with regard to this sect (the church) we know that everywhere it is spoken against:" (28:22). The very fact that others have been violently opposed does not stop them from listening to what Paul has to say.

The result of the hearing is equally interesting. We are told that "some were convinced by what he said, while others disbelieved" (28:24). We are told that they "disagreed" and some departed because they could not accept some of Paul's ideas, but there is no hint of dark plots or riots.

Preaching Unhindered

Thus, with the reader waiting for the grand climax — perhaps either escape of execution — we find that there is no climax at all. Instead, the book closes with these words:

And he lived there two whole years at his own expense, and welcomed all who came to him, preaching the kingdom of God and teaching about the Lord Jesus Christ quite openly and unhindered.

That's the end of both chapter 28 and the whole Book of Acts. How Paul's life went on or ended is still simply a matter of conjecture and theory. The 29th chapter of Acts ends with Paul still working.

Thus, Acts is a kind of openended book. The Acts of the Apostles are presumed to continue on through Paul's time and into every era of the church. Paul's story ends with chapter 28 but the acts of the apostles and disciples continue on as countless others follow in their footsteps, preaching and teaching of Jesus the Christ and witnessing to his power throughout the world. The acts of the apostles go on beyond chapter 28. They never end!
